This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

THE first Catalogue of the Theological Library in this Seminary, was prepared by Mr. Gibbs, now Prof. of Sacred Literature at New Haven. It consisted of about 160 pages, and was published in 1819. The library, as will be easily seen, notwithstanding ten or eleven years had elapsed since the commencement of the Institution,* was then quite small. It had received but little from private donations, and was possessed of very limited funds. These funds, however, having gradually accumulated, Dr. Robinson, on his visiting Germany, in 1826 and onward, was commissioned to make considerable purchases; and these together with a generous donation from an individual and a few other smaller donations, have brought it to its present size.†

Dr. Robinson on his return and election to the office of Prof. Extraordinary and Librarian, in 1830, as a part of his duties, commenced a new and full Catalogue, and labored upon it constantly for between four and five months. When, on account of ill health and other causes, he, in 1833, resigned his situation, the fruit of his labor was left behind him in manuscript. This last, though made out with all the thoroughness and minute accuracy for which this gentleman is remarkable, had been written in a very fine hand, for his own eye, and was left uncopied. Such, with a few additions made by different persons, were the materials which I found for the present work, on being invited some time since by the Trustees, to engage in the undertaking. Every thing else was to be done, the original investigations and entrances to be completed, and the whole to be arranged, harmonized, recopied, verified, printed, etc. I have been over the entire ground, and with few exceptions, trusted nothing even to the accuracy of my learned predecessors. My object under the countenance of those who employed me, has been to exhibit a full and perfect alphabetical description of every thing the library contains. While, therefore, I availed myself of their labors and general guidance, it was necessary for me, however tedious the process, to see and do every thing for myself.

The plan of the work is as follows.

* The Institution was first opened in 1808.

† The library, reckoning duplicates and a few pamphlets in the drawers and the desk, now varies but little from twelve thousand volumes.

The books are not arranged scientifically in the library, to any great extent; it being difficult to carry out any such arrangement, where a library is receiving continual accessions, and at the same time to preserve neatness and regularity of appearance.* Every shelf is numbered; and the books, being located according to their size, are numbered in their order on the shelves; and both numbers are or should be distinctly marked on the outside of the volumes, so as to prevent the necessity of opening them in returning them to their proper places. Unbound pamphlets and similar papers are deposited in the drawers of the Library or in the desk. To facilitate the finding of any thing, the location of a work is always given in the printed Catalogue.†

The alphabetical Catalogue is considered as the most important, and as lying at the foundation of a systematic Index.‡ I have therefore been very minute and full in my registrations; and to avoid the necessity of repeating the title of a work in referring to it, I have connected a letter of the English or of the Greek alphabet with it, in the page. Thus, 127, z, means p. 127, letter z, opposite to which will be found "Maxima, etc.;" 129, o, or (o,) p. 129, letter o, connected with which will be found "Dictionnaire, etc." This simple plan will render it easy to make out quite a full systematic index, on a very small scale.

Whenever a work or an article is to be entered, the name of the author is always sought for in the first place, and exhibited, if necessary, in the different forms it may assume. This, it is thought, agreeably to the mode originally adopted here by Prof. Gibbs, and also to the prevailing taste of Europe, should be accompanied with some short, specific, biographical notice, which, whenever possible, has accordingly been done.§ The name of the author being duly entered, all his productions are arranged under it, in alphabetical order, excepting that whole works are placed first. References from one volume or author to another, are made in a parenthesis. Lives or biographies by a different hand, naturally come last, provided they are not mentioned in connection with some previous article. Any bibliographical or other notices, which it was thought desirable to add,

* On the formation of libraries, the qualities requisite for a librarian, etc., see Ebert's Bildung des Bibliothekars.

† The first column of Nos. designates the shelves, the second, the books on the shelves. If there be no second No. it is because the volumes on that particular shelf have not been arranged. Two or more volumes are sometimes designated by the No. of the 1st, when the others do not stand immediately after it, but only near at hand.

‡ When this Index shall make its appearance, is a matter yet to be determined. It will probably be confined to a thin pamphlet in size, and be adapted to binding up with the present volume.

§ In transferring honorary German titles into English, I have followed the example of Prof. Robinson, and the hints to be found on the subject in his articles on Germany in the Biblical Repository.

(and it has required great self-denial not to multiply such additions,) have for the most part been given in a smaller type at the close. If a work were published anonymously, it is generally entered both under the author's name, when discoverable, and also under the principal word of the title; while those works, the authors of which remain undiscovered, and about the principal words of whose titles there might be a variety of opinions, are entered under different heads, a proper reference being at all times kept up between one part of the Catalogue and another. Whenever a work is entered more than once, it is entered fully, that is, so fully as to characterize it, under its proper author or appropriate head; and all other entrances are made as brief as possible, and not unfrequently confined to a note, where many of them can be introduced in a brief space. If in any instance, more of a title seem to be given than necessary, it is done on account of different articles or authors involved in it, to facilitate references, and to save repetitions. I have in all cases sought for brevity, but in aiming at completeness, may sometimes have fallen into prolixity.

With regard to the arrangement of different authors of the same name, I long had some doubt, whether to follow the alphabetical order or the chronological. Both frequently prove defective. It is often impossible to ascertain exactly when a person lived, while Gulielmus in Latin, becomes William in English; and Gottlieb in German, Theophilus in Latin. Upon the whole, I have adopted the chronological order, as far as it would carry me, and then fallen upon the alphabetical.*

With regard to the foreign diphthongs, ä, ö, ü, the Germans now generally, in all their alphabetical arrangements, treat them as simple vowels.† As, however, with us, it is often necessary, on account of the absence of proper type, or the closeness of the lines when capital letters are used, to divide them into their originals and print them out in full, as is often done indeed by the Germans themselves, I have always arranged them upon this principle, even when, in a few cases, I have, for the sake of greater beauty, required them at some trouble to be furnished with dots.

The custom of omitting accents, in printing with capitals, I have, for the sake of convenience, a few extraordinary cases excepted, usually followed. When, however, it has been necessary to transfer any thing from capitals to small letters, I have considered myself under obligation to add these minutiae. I have also generally followed the Germans in omitting the sign of the ablative and of the genitive of the fourth declension, in Latin; and like them, printed the diphthongs æ, œ, out in full. A single Scotch name, however, occurs, in which this is done, contrary, as I am since informed, to the best and carefully guarded usages of the country. Graeme, in both cases, on page 189, should have been printed Græme.

* Heinsius in his Bücher-Lexikon adheres to the alphabetical order. See Bd. I. Pref. p. XVIII. Watt does the same.

† Thus Bahrens with them is entered as if spelled Bahrens. See Heinsius, Pref. ut supra.

Great pains have been taken to secure as much neatness in the mechanical execution of the work as the nature of the page would admit. Not, however, I would fain hope, to the neglect of what is far more important, the accuracy and harmony of every part. These have been made an object of unwearied attention. A few of the first sheets, it is but fair to say, were not so thoroughly revised as the subsequent ones. In these, in particular, some errors have been discovered. Here and there too, an accident of the press has been detected. It is not impossible that farther investigation may discover others. It is a species of work in which perfect correctness is of difficult attainment. There is little or no logic to hold the various parts together. The types are often small, or else stand out alone, and consequently are very liable to break off, especially the periods and the figures. Besides, I was called to the work immediately from the arduous duties of the winter. I have had to pursue it long, and latterly in a very exhausted state of health and spirits. I flatter myself, however, that in the main it is correct. Every error deserving the name, so far as any have been discovered, is noticed at the close of the volume. Let the reader at least be careful how he fancies he finds others. I have never, except as above hinted, and for purposes of elucidation and abridgement, considered myself at liberty to deviate from the titles. In important cases, as of old and rare or curious productions, I have been minutely exact. The reader must therefore expect to find a variety of spelling and other apparent inconsistencies, in the very same article. He will usually be unable to decide whether I am right or wrong, in any given instance, except by a resort to the work itself.

That he who investigates after me, will occasionally see reason to differ from me in some respects, is quite probable. I have always endeavored to draw my statements and facts from the best sources of information, considering those as the most to be relied upon, caeteris paribus, which lay nearest to the fountain head, provided I could not have access to the head itself. It follows, however, from the very nature of the case, that I have had to rely upon all kinds of authorities, from the best to the very worst. My general works of reference have been: Watt's Bibliotheca Britannica; Winer's Handbuch der theol. Literatur, 2te Aufl. 8vo. Leipz. 1826; Heinsius's Bücher-Lexikon; Brunet's

Manuel; Ersch's Handbuch; Conversations-Lexikon, 8te Originalauflage, 12 Bde. 8vo. Maj. Leipz. 1833—7; Conversations-Lexikon der neuesten Zeit und Literatur, 4 Bde. 8vo. Maj. Leipz. 1832—4. Mit Nachtrag; Gorton's General Biographical Dictionary, 3 Vols. Royal 8vo. Lond. 1835, with an Appendix; Lempriere's Universal Biography, edited by E. Lord, 2 Vols. 8vo. N. York, 1825; Rees's Cyclopaedia; Moreri's Grand Dictionaire; Georgi's Allgemeines Europäisches Bücher-Lexicon; Nösselt's Anweisung, etc. 4te Aufl.; Worcester's Geographical Dictionary, 2d Ed. 2 Vols. 8vo. Bost. 1823.

In particular departments, as American Biography: Allen's Biographical Dictionary, 2d Ed. 1832; the Quart. Register, with frequent information from its Editor, Prof. B. B. Edwards; Farmer's Genealogical Register; the Am. Almanac, etc.—In English Biography: Chalmers's English Poets; Hume's Hist. and Continuation; Christian Observer; Calamy's Nonconformist's Memorial.—In Biblical Literature: Masch's Bibliotheca Sacra, post Le Long, etc.; Dibdin's Introduction, 4th Ed. 2 Vols. 8vo. Lond. 1827; Lewis's History of English Translations of the Bible; Reports of the British and Foreign Bible Society.—In Church History and Monastic Literature: Cave's Historia Literaria; Fabricius's Bibliotheca Latina; Du Pin's Ecclesiastical Writers; Schröckh's Christliche Kirchengeschichte; Dibdin's Introduction, as above; Murdock's Mosheim; Butler's Lives of the Fathers, etc.—In Latin and Greek Literature, and ancient Geography: Anthon's Edition of Lempriere's Classical Dictionary; Ainsworth's 4to Dictionary, edited by Carey, Lond. 1823; Worcester's Geographical Dictionary, as above; Reland's Palaestina; Rosenmüller's Handbuch der biblischen Alterthumskunde, 4 Bde.; Handbuch zur Kenntniss der Gr. u. Röm. Classiker; Schoell's Geschichte der Gr. Litteratur, übersetzt von Schwartze, 3 Bde.

In Rabbinic: Wolf's Bibliotheca Hebraea, 4 Vols.; Bartolocci's Bibliotheca Magna Rabbinica, 4 Vols.; Masch's Bibliotheca Sacra, as above; Buxtorf's De Abbreviaturis Hebraicis, etc.; and the various works of De Rossi, on Rabbinic Literature. A Key to the Hebrew-German dialect may be found in Moeller's Novum Testamentum, etc. 316, f; also in Wagenseil's Belehrung, etc. 497, e.

In Arabic: Herbelot's Bibliothèque Orientale, réduite, etc.; Pocock's Specimen Historiae Arabum; Prideaux's Life of Mahomet; Wahl's Neue arab. Anthologie, Tafel der Jahre nach der muhhämmedanischen Zeitrechnung, p. 63; the various works of De Sacy in Arabic Literature, with Prefaces, Introductions, etc.*

* Those works, the editions of which are here given, as also the Reports of the Br. and F. B. Society, are not to be found in this Catalogue.

It is somewhat mortifying, at the close of my long and arduous work, to reflect, that few of those who may use it, will appreciate the difficulties of the undertaking, or the mental labor requisite to its accomplishment; while many will absolutely wonder that so much ado should be made about what appears to be so simple and easy of performance. That much of it was plain and simple, requiring merely judgment and accuracy with diligence, I readily admit. They should not, however, forget that the library was a public one, and I was constantly liable to interruption. It is well too, they bear in mind that the simple and brief in statement is often intricate and difficult in preparation. A single word from the mouth of an orator may thrill an audience and sway a nation; but then this word! The law of gravitation embraces the universe, but it required ages to enucleate it. What they find ready at hand, had often to be laboriously prepared. The old tome had lost its title, and every thing discoverable respecting its origin, was found in a few obscure contractions at the end. It may have been a rare and undescribed edition of the Bible. Possibly it was written in the Rabbinic, or the Hebrew-German, or the Armenian, or the Russian, or the Arabic, or some other obscure language or dialect. The date too was often either Jewish or Mohammedan, and of course to be reduced. The author's name, when expressed, was sometimes obscure, or written in a great variety of ways, and not unfrequently almost inextricably involved with others exactly like it. Or perhaps instead thereof was to be found only the honorary title of the dignitary, and his true name was to be ascertained; and then many a page to be scanned through, in order to discover when he lived, what was his profession, and when he died, or at least to determine that nothing of all this is discoverable.

I will not however complain, nor presume to rank myself with those who after lives of similar toil, have been obliged to write upon their works, "Aliis in serviendo consumor," and find themselves forgotten. Here and there an eye of kindness, and of experience in such labors, will at least see and feel that I have endeavored my best. I shall also enjoy the secret satisfaction of having made myself useful; of having set up a guide-board to fountains of knowledge which might otherwise have remained concealed; of having prepared a way for the diligent to become learned.

The friends of the Institution will doubtless find its Library in many respects still deficient. Let them, however, not forget that Christian generosity has made it what it is, and that Christian generosity must enlarge it.

g. of Songs and Hymns, a Hebrew MS. containing Odes both Sacred and Profane, in Rhyme, and in different Metres. (No. 3. in) Drw. 18

Note. The above MS. is of the 12mo size, containing about 375 pages, and was written in 1724. It is from the black Jews of India, and was forwarded by Mr. Bardwell, the Missionary, several years since, to Prof. Stuart, by whom it was presented to the Library. The author of the work itself is unknown. For a further account of it, see the accompanying description, drawn up by Prof. Nordheimer, of N. Y., together with a translation of the last page; and the first two lines with points. They commence as follows: יִקְרֵי יוֹם חֲצֻבַת תַּגְרִיל, etc.
